May 7th will end the Move to Subscription Program (M2S).

- This program ends May 7, 2020. After this date maintenance customers will not be able to convert their perpetual licenses on maintenance to subscription.
- They will lose the opportunity to receive annual subscription pricing based on their 2019 maintenance pricing.
- After, May 7, 2020, they may renew their maintenance agreement (the last renewal) for one more year. However, after August 7th, 2020, renewal will be at a 20% higher price than what they paid in 2019.

Maintenance Trade-in Program Begins May 7th, 2020:

- If you have a maintenance renewal that expires after May 7th, you can trade-in one stand-alone license for one single-user subscription license or one network license for one multi-user subscription license. The subscription price will be like what you are paying today for maintenance.

Multi-User Trade-in Program – Begins August 7th, 2020:

- Customers with Multi-user licenses (subscription or maintenance) whose subscription or maintenance agreement expires after August 7, 2020, can trade-in one multi-user license and receive two single-user licenses and pay a price like what they are paying for one license at the time of the trade-in.
- Customers with Multi-user licenses on multi-year subscriptions that expire after August 7, 2020, can trade them in for two annual single-user licenses and pay a price like what they are paying at the time of the trade-in. The 2 for 1 deal is only good at their first renewal beginning after August 7, 2020.
- Customers who wait until their second renewal can trade-in one Move to Subscription Program multi-user license for one single-user license.

Design & Creation Suites Retirement - April 16th, 2020:

- The last release (2021) of the Design & Creation Suites is available for download now.

Pricing through 2028 for those who move to subscription:

Autodesk has provided guidance on subscription pricing for those customers who switched their maintenance software to subscription. Between 2018 and 2028, customers will see, at most, a 5% increase on odd-numbered years beginning in 2021 (2021, 2023, 2025 & 2027). Customers who trade in their multi-user subscriptions will have the same price protection as those who switched from maintenance to subscription.
